

The birth of Standard Time. Sandford Fleming outlines a plan for universal time reckoning at the Canadian Institute, Toronto, 8 February 1879. From the original by Rex Woods in the Confederation Life collection of Canadian historical paintings. This image was scanned from the reproduction in The Beginning of the Long Dash: a history of timekeeping in Canada by Malcolm M. Thomson, University of Toronto Press, Toronto, 1978.